

Sponsored by
Avon Lake City Schools

The Successful AD/HD Student

FREE

Thursday, March 6, 2008

A presentation for parents and students, and all those whose lives interact with AD/HD
Educators can receive a certificate of attendance

There is more to know about Attention Deficit Disorder than what you hear on the street.
Millions of Americans - young and old - have come forward for treatment.

Joyce Kubik is an AD/HD Coach, Skills Trainer, Author & Presenter
She is an ADHD Adult and has raised AD/HD children.

Learn how she overcame the many barriers that a person - and family - lives with each day when AD/HD is present. Awareness of these barriers is essential to understanding how AD/HD effects even the simplest daily task.

It is time to educate yourself and others around you on what living with AD/HD really means. Your involvement can only enhance your life as a parent, student, or educator when you learn more effective ways to bring alive the many talents that are so characteristic of those with AD/HD.

AGENDA

Living With AD/HD

The Bridge Is/Was Out (how information is processed)

A Discussion on Perception

How Do I Know if the Behavior is AD/HD?

What about AD/HD and other conditions - Aspergers, Depression, Anxiety?

Take Away Some Tips & Strategies

Date: Thursday, March 6, 2008

Time: 7:00 - 9:00 pm

Location: Troy Intermediate School, Media Center, 237 Belmar Blvd. To provide adequate seating and materials, please call Sharon Barry at 440-933-2701, and let her know how many will be attending. You may direct questions about the presentation to Joyce Kubik at 440-933-8309 or email at kubikja@bridgetosuccess.net.

Joyce Kubik is President of Bridge To Success (www.bridgetosuccess.net), with degrees in Psychology & Communications. She is the author of Plan For Success, a series of planners that teach you to manage your AD/HD instead of it managing you. Her latest book, S.C.O.P.E. is a compilation of parenting skills and educational techniques taught in her workshops throughout Ohio. She speaks nationally and is also a guest columnist in local papers.